

Designer

Greenway Partners is adding several new projects to our portfolio of community-building work. We are making our design offerings more robust by growing our team of experienced designers.

A Designer at Greenway will be a member of a team that is creating legacy projects in the Pacific Northwest.

This is an opportunity for an experienced designer with a systems perspective who can manage design production from concept to construction.

Skills in modern technology platforms and plan set development are critical.

Knowledge of construction processes and building design are also highly desirable.

The ideal candidate will not only be a capable designer, but will also be inspired to create sustainable and adaptable communities with our team.
